

≡ Item Navigation

Collaborate remotely with Adobe XD

Collaboration among colleagues is key to any UX project, from research to ideation to prototyping. Although the benefits of working together in the same room are substantial, being in the same room isn't always possible! Team members might be located in different cities, states, or even countries.

Using collaborative digital design tools, like Figma and Adobe XD, makes working remotely much easier. To learn about how to work as a remote team in Adobe XD, check out this article about how to share designs and collaborate in Adobe XD . Or you can learn from three design leaders in London who shared remote collaboration best practices, processes, and pitfalls  in this article on XD Ideas.

Mark as completed

