

Share feedback you've received

Feedback can be tough to balance, whether you're the one giving feedback or receiving it. Reflecting on the ideas you've learned so far, consider the following questions:

What was one time you received feedback on a project that helped you improve your work?

What made it easier to understand that feedback and implement it?