

1.

Implicit bias is a collection of attitudes and stereotypes we associate with people without our conscious knowledge. Take a moment to recognize your own implicit biases.

Do you have a positive or negative association with people who live in a particular city?

Do you have positive or negative assumptions about a particular gender role?

How have these biases influenced your own design work, your interactions with everyday products, or the people you talk to everyday?