Psychology influences user behavior

Have you ever considered how psychology influences your behavior and engagement with products in everyday life? Thinking about this topic, please share one of your experiences on how a particular product's design provided a good user experience for you.