1.
Competitive research is crucial to informing design decisions. In your own competitive analysis research for the second project website, describe two to three findings and consider the following questions:
What similarities and differences did you notice between your product and your competitors?
What gaps or opportunities for improvement did you notice in your own design and your competitors?
How might these differences and similarities inform the features and goals of your website design?