1.

You learned about the benefits of freelancing and why you might pursue that career path. Now, think about potential freelancing opportunities in your area. Do you know any small businesses or non-profit organizations in your town that could benefit from your UX design help?

What strategies would you use to land them as a client?